

BERGHAIN
panoramic view

Donnerstag 03.04.2025 Start 22 Uhr CRUDE
Säule

AUTOGENESIS LIVE
AYIM Johan N. Lecander Kaytseng slym szoliver

Bei CRUDEs drittem Label-Showcase in der Säule spielt Autogenesis aus Sydney ein Live-Set, das von posthumaren Zukunftsvisionen, außerirdischen Formen und geheimnisvollen Technologien geprägt ist. Die taiwanesische Künstlerin und CRUDE-Resident-DJ Kaytseng bietet psychedelische Klänglandschaften, die von spiralförmigen Texturen und verzerrten Synthesizern geprägt sind. Szoliver und Slym, die Gründer des Budapester Labels techlabs bp, bringen eine Mischung aus intergalaktischem IDM und gesichtsschädigender Psy-Weisheit. Abgerundet wird das Lineup durch die Amsterdamerin AYIM — DJ und Produzentin und Mitbegründerin von KOLT — sowie den schwedischen Selektor und Ikone Johan N. Lecander, der die Nacht mit einem fesselnden Set aus 90er-Acid-Trance abschließt.

Freitag 04.04.2025 Start 22 Uhr Toy Tonics
Panorama Bar

Arpy Brown toy tonics Bárbara Boeing Chloe Caillet
Kapote toy tonics Kiddy Smile neverbeener

Arpy Brown ist das DJ- und Produzenten-Alias des Briten Robin Braum, der zwischen London und Berlin pendelt und in beiden Städten intime Clubnächte veranstaltet, die sich auf die verspielte Seite der House-Musik konzentrieren. Er ist bekannt dafür, verschiedene musikalische Einflüsse, Instrumente und Gesang zu zeitlosen, zeitgenössischen Jams zu verschmelzen. Aus Curitiba, Brasilien, kommt Bárbara Boeing, die dort mit Alter Disco ihre eigene Party veranstaltet und deren Sets gefühlvoll Reisen durch perkussive, tiefe Klangwelten voller lateinamerikanischer Einflüsse sind. Chloe Caillet ist eine Pariser DJ, Produzentin und Multiinstrumentalistin, die sich in den letzten Jahren mit ihrer internationalen Partyreihe Smile einen Namen gemacht hat. Mit Kiddy Smile hat Toy Tonics-Macher Kapote außerdem einen der schillerndsten DJs und Persönlichkeiten der französischen Ballroom-Szene eingeladen, der seit drei Jahren Juror bei Drag Race France ist.

Samstag 05.04.2025 Start 24 Uhr Klubnacht
Berghain

Terence Fixmer LIVE mute
Amanda Mussi Andy Martin Answer Code Request ostgut ton
DJ Nobu bitta Mia Magia motto sono Paula Koski soma Rødhåd wsnwg
Panorama Bar

Ed Davenport globuli Gallegos room service Lucas Depta funnuvojere
Norman Nodge ostgut ton PARAMIDA love on the rocks
Paula Tape future classic Snad smallville Violetta funnuvojere

Mia Magia ist Resident-DJ für die internationale queere Partyreihe HE.SHE.THEY und spielt dubbigen, rohen Techno und klassischen Deep House. Ihre Wurzeln liegen in der LGBTQ+-Clubszene Helsinki, wo sie ihre eigenen Partys organisierte und jahrelang die Helsinki Pride Parade leitete. Seit 2020 führt sie Motto Sono Records, ein Label, auf dem sie Musik von skandinavischen Künstler*innen wie Carl Lekebusch veröffentlicht. Mia Magia wird bei dieser Klubnacht zum ersten Mal in Deutschland spielen. Der heute in Berlin lebende Shayam „Snad“ Anand begann seine musikalische Karriere beim Chicagoer Radiosender WNUR 89.3. Nach seinem Umzug entwickelte er in den letzten Jahren eine zeitgenössische Sicht auf den europäischen Minimal-Sound der 00er Jahre, den er mit der rauen Intensität des Chicago House kreuzt. Seine Platten, die zuletzt auf Labels wie Smalville, Phonica oder auch Chez Damiers Courtesy Of Balance erschienen sind, enthalten schweißgerische, elegante Deephouse-Tracks, die nie so nostalgisch klingen. Unter dem Namen Spandrel schmiedet er zudem an einer dynamischen Fusion aus Tech House und Garage. Wir freuen uns auf Snads ersten Gig in der Panorama Bar.

Thilo Schneider
Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB plays at the Easter Klubnacht in Panorama Bar.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East London, and I've been living in Berlin for the past six years.

Could you briefly outline your musical background and career? What have been the most important milestones leading up to your current life as a touring DJ?

Music has always been a big part of my life. My dad was a DJ and a serious record collector, so I grew up with music. Some of my weekly visits to record stores with him and his friends play records at home. This connection set me on the path of digging for records, playing music, and eventually producing my own music. I started my career in London at 19, diving into the warehouse and after-party scene. The energy at those parties was raw - no rules, no pressure, just people locked into the music. That taught me how to read a room, build long sets, and play the right record at the right time.

When I moved to Berlin, everything shifted. A new city, new people, and new energy gave me a fresh perspective. Setting up my studio with gear I'd always wanted was a big milestone. Since moving here, I've invested a lot of my DJ fees into gear I couldn't afford before, which has inspired me to create?

The LP came together by simply jamming in the studio, hitting record, and capturing that raw, spontaneous energy - rather than following a strict concept. My approach was the same as always: built around analog hardware and an outboard mixer, leaving room for experimentation with effects. I've become a fusion of the two - stripped-back arrangements with that techno soul, staying true to the spirit of what we do.

Christian AB

Please introduce yourself.
I'm Christian AB, a DJ and producer originally from Leytonstone, East